SECOND DEGREE MURDER TRIAL TO BE IN OCTOBER.

BANK MOTIONS HEARD

Sale of Hopkins Bank Building and Expenses at Burlington Junction Approved.

The trial of Loren Baublits of Graham, charged with second degree murder for the killing of Frank Burchett of St. Joseph, will be held during the October term of the Nodaway county circuit court.

Appearing in person at an adjourned session of the court this morning, Baublit's application for a continuance was sustained by Judge John M. Dawson, who made an order for the continuance to the October term. The killing resulting in the charge against Baublits occurred near the Bethany church, southwest of Maryville, on January 22.

The time of the circuit court was taken up this morning mostly by making orders relative to the defunct Northwestern Bank of Burlington Junction, the Parnell Bank and the Bank of Hopkins.

An expense account of $862.31 of the Northwestern Bank for the period of January 1, 1928, to April 30, 1928, was approved. The court approved of the sale of the building of the Bank of Hopkins and lot to the Midwest Telephone company for $3,500.

The telephone company will occupy the building, which is a two-story structure, as soon as the fixtures of the bank are sold and removed. Also, the sale of a Burrough's posting machine of the Parnell bank to the Farmers and Merchant's bank of Hopkins for $250 was approved by the court.

No motion having been filed for a new trial, judgment of $150, returned by a jury, was rendered in the damage suit of Frank Jones against the Chicago, Great Western railroad.

ADJOURNMENT VOTE BLOCKED

SENATE ACTION PREVENTED IN TUMULTUOUS SESSION.

CLAMOR FOR ACTION

Supporters of Boulder Dam, Cruiser and Barge Line Measures Oppose Tuesday Agreement.

Washington, May 26.—An uprising of Republican senators prevented consideration in the Senate today of the House resolution calling for adjournment of Congress next Tuesday.

Amid tumultuous parliamentary scenes, with senators clamoring for action on the Boulder Dam bill, the navy cruiser construction bill and the Mississippi barge line measure, Senator Lafollette, Republican, Wisconsin, objected to consideration of the adjournment resolution after it had been presented by Senator Curtis, Republican floor leader.

When Curtis presented the resolution, Senator Heflin of Alabama, arose, shouting for a quorum. Curtis declined to yield to him. Half a dozen senators shouted for "the regular order," and Lafollette was on his feet calling, "I object, I object."

Goes Over One Day.

Dawes pacified the objectors by announcing the objection would prevent consideration of the resolution for a day. Curtis consulted the parliamentarian but could find no way out of his dilemma.

A continuous storm of protest against the resolution had been started earlier by Senator Hiram Johnson; Oddie, Republican, Nevada; Hale, Republican, Maine; Shipstead, Farmer Laborite, Minnesota; and Norris, Republican, Nebraska.

Johnson was fighting for Boulder Dam; Hale wanted to get his naval cruiser bill considered; Shipstead demanded action on the Mississippi barge line; Oddie said President Coolidge was carrying the federal good roads bill around in his pocket and might veto it if Congress adjourned; and Norris said all the legislation should be considered.

Minor Bills Passed.

The Senate hurriedly passed the House bill to revise the veterans insurance code so that the cost of guardianship for insane veterans should be borne by the veterans bureau.

The measure also sets a six-year statute of limitations for suits regarding veterans' insurance.

The Walsh bill correcting 1,000 errors in the statute—a measure occupying more than 200 pages—likewise was passed.

Heflin in Usual Attack.

Heflin launched into his daily attack upon Gov. Alfred E. Smith and the Catholic Church, and many senators thereupon went to lunch. Heflin said he had received a threatening letter from Long Island signed by an "ex-cowboy who never misses."

"I am willing to die for religious freedom," he added.

Senator Hiram Johnson served notice upon senate leaders that he would fight against the plan to adjourn Congress next Tuesday. His notice was given privately at the outset of the day's session when his Boulder Canyon Dam bill again came up for action. The measure was passed yesterday by the House.

May Seek Continuous Session.

Although Senators appeared refreshed by a night's sleep after the overnight Muscle Shoals filibuster, Johnson indicated he would hesitate to seek a continuous session tonight. He fears he may be unable to keep a quorum. He wants to delay adjournment until next Saturday.

If the House resolution for adjournment Tuesday is passed over his protest, he may, however, seek a continuous session until Tuesday in an effort to force a vote upon his bill.

Mrs. Clara Teagarden returned to Maryville at noon today after attending funeral services for her son-in-law in St. Joseph. Mrs. Teagarden makes her home with Mrs. Mary Pennington here.

FARMERS TO TAKE ACTION

MARCH OF 100,000 ON KANSAS CITY CONVENTION PLANNED.

FARM BILL IS KILLED

Senate Vote of 50 to 31 to Override Veto Lacks Necessary Two-Thirds —Nebraska Leads.

(By United Press)

Midwestern farmers, incensed by the presidentiall veto of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, planned various forms of action today.

Several thousand farmers planned to meet at Springfield, Ill., today to protest the veto. They were expected to demand that both major political parties insert a farm relief plank in their platforms.

Governor Adam McMullen of Nebraska said he had been offered a field near Kansas City for the army of 100,000 farmers he had urged to march upon the Kansas City Republican convention, seeking recognition of farm relief. He had no definite plans for mobilizing such a force but said it could be done, easily.

The Iowa Farm Bureau Federation decided to call a protest meeting of all its local organizations against the presidential veto.

The Senate late yesterday voted, 50 to 31, to override the presidential veto of the farm relief bill. This was less than the two-thirds favorable vote required, so the measure failed of repassage. Many believed this failure propelled farm relief into the presidential campaign.

On to Kansas City.

Lincoln, Neb., May 26.—C. A. Steward, secretary of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, telegraphed the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce and William Butler today that arrangements must be made to accommodate 100,000 farmers at the Republican national convention.

Steward said in his telegrams that members of the farm bureau in Nebraska have sent him "many letters and telegrams indicating their intention of driving to Kansas City to attend the convention.

"Doubtless a similiar purpose exists in other states," said the message. "The farmers are keenly disappointed over the President's veto of the farm bill and are determined to show their attitude at the convention.

"Can you provide conveniently located camping place with central dining tents and water supply?"

Gallery Seats Asked.

The wire to Butler requested that loud speakers be installed in Convention Hall, and that at least one-third of the gallery be reserved for the army of farmers.

Stewards' wires said the farmers are keenly disappointed over the veto of the farm bill and are "determined to make it known."

The action of Steward follows a prediction by Gov. Adam McMullen yesterday that the army of farmers easily will total more than 100,000.

Steward also reiterated McMullen's stand that the "farmers' army" is not an idle dream. "I urge that you give this most serious consideration," said the wire to Butler.

Camping Ground Offered.

Lincoln, Neb., May 26.—A camping ground has been offered 100,000 farmers if they will take the suggestion of Gov. Adam McMullen and march to the Republican national convention with a demand for farm relief.

Governor McMullen said a plot of land at the edge of Kansas City had been proffered to the agricultural army if the plan materializes. The farmers would live in a tent city during the convention.

"It would be a second caravan of the covered wagon," the governor said. "The farmers might well leave their fields idle for a year to win that battle."

Although he did not reveal any definite plans for mobilization of the army, Governor McMullen believed it would be "an easy matter." A nation-wide radio appeal might be made, he said, to get "recruits" for the army.

J. L. Parks Made Dean of M. U. Law School

Professor of Law Is Appointed to Succeed Dean J. P. McBaine.—Had Resigned.

Columbia, Mo., May 26.—James L. Parks, professor of law in the University of Missouri, has been appointed dean of the school of law of the University, according to an announcement today by Stratton D. Brooks, president of the University.

Parks succeeds Dean J. P. McBaine who resigned last March in order to accept a teaching position in California.

Parks had resigned from the law faculty of the Washington University school of law at St. Louis. The St. Louis school, however, released him from contract so he could accept the deanship here, said Brooks.

BANDITS HIDE IN 'BAD LAND'

MEN IN CARS, AFOOT AND IN PLANES KEEP UP SEARCH.

FEAR FOR A CAPTIVE

Kidnaped Teller May Have Been Slain.—Killer Gang Now Sought Toward Oklahoma.

Denver, Colo., May 26.—The "bad lands" of western Kansas, a rendezvous of bandits and killers, sheltered at least part of the five men who held up and robbed the First National Bank at Lamar, Colo., and killed A. N. Parrish, president, and his son, John, reports received here today indicated.

Hundreds of men, heavily armed, in automobiles and afoot, searched the Brakes of the dangerous Smoky Hill country, while airplanes, in which machine guns were mounted, flew overhead in an effort to sight the large automobile in which the bandits escaped.

Switch Toward Oklahoma.

Search for the bandits switched suddenly from the country southeast of Scott City, Kas., toward Oklahoma, this afternoon, according to word received here from J. Winton Lemon, staff photographer of the Denver Evening News, who went to the scene in an airplane.

The bandits are said to have hidden overnight in caves in the Smoky Hills river section and escaped in a Ford automobile.

The search today was concentrated as largely on ascertaining the fate of E. A. Kesinger, kidnaped teller of the bank, as on capture of the bandits.

No word has been heard from the teller since he was blind-folded and placed in the bottom of the bandit car as it sped away from the scene of the ribbery.

Posse Is Eluded.

The killers are believed to have eluded a posse near Dighton, Kan., shortly after midnight when a large automobile swept up a road at high speed, and veered off on another road to evade a barricade placed by peace officers.

A squad of four deputies left Oakley, Kan., early today for Elcador, near the place where the body of Dr. W. W. Wineinger, who is believed to have been slain by the bandits after treating the wounds of one of their members, was found.

Two theories are advanced in connection with the physician's death: One that he was called to minister to the wounded bandit, and was slain by them to prevent identification if they were captured, and the other that he was killed as part of a revenge plot in which the elder Parrish likewise had been marked for death.

Police learned that Parrish had handled a land deal for Dr. Wineinger years ago and see a connection in the deaths of the two men.

Raw Rhubarb Eaten.

Indications that the bandits still are in the vicinity of Scott City, Kan., came in word from D. B. Land, county attorney, that an abandoned house had been found thirteen miles north of Scott City where the bandidts may have eaten raw rhubarb. Tops of rhubarb were found in the house.

Special members of the posse which now numbers several hundred, including some of the crack shots of the West, remained on guard at ranch homes in the Smoky Hill district last night after ranchers and farmers had appealed for protection.

Chief of Police R. Fred Reed here discounted the report that the bandits

POLAR SHIP IS MISSING

THE ITALIA, TWO DAYS OVERDUE, PROBABLY HELPLESS.

AMUNDSEN TO SEARCH

Supply Ship Also Will Set Out to Find Nobile and Crew.—No Word for 18 Hours.

(Copyright 1928 by United Press)

Buffeted by storms, her fabric ripped, one of her motors disabled, her fuel probably exhausted, her crew half frozen and exhausted after nearly 48 hours at emergency posts and 83½ hours in the air, the polar dirigible Italia at 11 a. m., e. s. t. today had been silent for 18 hours.

Sixty-two hours before, she had nosed proudly over the North Pole—the third flying craft to accomplish the feat—and had dropped over her side various objects to signify man's supremacy over the inimical arctic elements.

At 11 a. m., the Italia was 43½ hours overdue at Spitzbergen, in desperate straits.

No News at Kings Bay.

The last message from Kings Bay, Spitzenbergen, sent at 8:30 a. m., e. s. t., started off: "no news from the Italia."

As the ship in the air or her crew on the frozen arctic waste fought for life, all resources of the European Northland were being mobilized to go to their aid.

The Norwegian government summoned an urgent meeting of polar experts in response to an appeal by the Italian ambassador at Oslo. Roald Amundsen, ace of the arctic, discoverer of the South Pole and companion of the Italia's commander on a previous North Pole flight, was expected to take charge of a relief expedition.

The supply ship Citta Di Milano, the Italia's base ship at Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, had steamed up and was preparing to leave momentarily to buck the ice in an effort to reach the northern part of the Island—where the Italia last was reported—by a circuitous route around the eastern coast, where the ice was less thickly jammed than on the western side.

Sealers and Trappers Search.

While these two expeditions were preparing to go to the stormstricken dirigible's aid, sealing ships and trappers in the little islands north of Spitzbergen, up past the Northernmost point of civilization, were searching for the Italia on land and listening for the sound of her engines in the air.

A radio message from one of the sealing ships gave but little hope that either help would be of much avail.

The fog was so thick, it was said, that the Italia could not be seen a short distance away, and an icy gale was howling so strongly, as if in derisive triumph, that the whir of her motors could not be heard if she was at any appreciable altitude in the air.

May Ask Russia to Aid.

Berlin, May 26.—Italy may request the Russian government to send a relief expedition from Archangel to the polar dirigible Italia's rescue.

Polar experts said there were no Norwegian war vessels or airplanes on the northern coast of Norway so that a Russian expedition could reach the Italia first if she were forced to land.

Steamship Chartered.

Tromose, Norway, May 16.—The Norwegian arctic steamship Hobby was engaged today to proceed to the relief of the stricken polar dirigible Italia, and will leave here tomorrow morning on her search.

Amundsen Asked to Aid.

Oslo, Norway, May 26. — Roald Amunsen, veteran arctic explorer and partner of Gen. Umberto Nobile on their 1926 North Pole flight, was asked by the Norwegian government today to go to the relief of the stormstricken dirigible Italia.

The government's request followed an appeal by the Italian ambassador that a relief expedition be organized.

The cabinet met immediately, and decided at once to do its utmost to help. It was decided that Amundsen was the man and he was asked to arrange urgently to organize help for the dirigible.

Has Crossed Both Poles.

Amundson, the only man in the world who has crossed both poles at the extremities of the world, was expected to organize an expedition at once.

It was Amundsen who on December 14, 1921, discovered the south pole, 37 years after Capt. James Cook had led the first antarctic exploration expedition.

THRILLS IN A FLIER'S LIFE

IT NEVER GETS DULL, SAYS LIEUT. E. A. GORTON.

HOME WITH PARENTS

Nodaway County Boy Next January Will Go on Five Months Trip Around Cape Horn.

Flying up and down the western coast, now and then hopping eastward or possibly down into Central America or Mexico, going on "missionary" jaunts such as one to the scene of the San Francisquito Canon dam disaster, all the time flying under the colors of the United States Navy, constitutes the life of E. A. Gorton, former Nodaway County boy, now a lieutenant in the Naval Aviation Aircraft Squadron of the battle fleet.

Gorton now is on a three month's leave and is visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gorton, near Pickering.

Lieutenant Gorton has been in the aviation corps of the Navy for six years. Two years of this time he was in the reserve and four years in the regular service, stationed at San Diego, Cal., under Commander Reeves of the Aircraft Squadron.

Gorton's outfit flies in Boeing pursuit planes, equipped with the speedy little patented Whitney Wasp engine. Some are fitted with six machine guns.

Gorton now holds the ran kof first lieutenant, junior grade, which is equivalent to First Lieutenant in the army.

Camp Life Not Tiresome.

The routine of camp life for the naval aviation never grows old, because of its thrills and variation. The outfit is generally in the air by 8:30 a. m., off for firing practice or special duty, while on special occasions the planes are off in formation by 6:30 or 7 o'clock in the morning. In the air, much of the time, the men are drilled in short arm firing, every aviator carrying short weapons, and each plane being equipped with several machine guns of the latest type.

A short time after the California dam disaster, three fliers from Gorton's squadron, including himself, set out for the scene. One was lost in a fog before arriving, but the other two reached the devastated area. Lieutenant Gorton describes the conditions as worse than has been pictured in the newspapers. Looters, he says, have been formidable pests since the wall of water struck the valley, and it is futile to try to keep all treasure-salvagers away. Many of the surviving inhabitants were lingering about the devastated location of their homes, more than half dazed, several days after the dam break.

Gorton tells interestingly of a trip through the Central American states and of Mexican excursions. This territory, he says, is about the worst area for flying that his outfit covers. He was once connected with the Border Patrol and can tell humorously of various escapades on the trail of border bandits and the experiences of the border patrolmen.

Taught By Lindbergh's Instructor.

Academic work is not omitted from the day's schedule, chief training in this line being in navigation and mechanics. He has received instruction in this line and in actual flying under the same man who both Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Major Commander Thomas Lamphier studied under—Major Commander, R. V. P. Weems.

Next January holds for Gorton the most extensive trip an aviator can hope for—a trip around Cape Horn, South America, a journey to be taken by the entire Squadron and to require five months time. If present plans are followed, he stated, the airplane carrier, U. S. S. Saratoga, which can handle 112 planes, will make the trip with the battle fleet outfit.

Gorton is an aviation enthusiast, having enlisted until the retirement age, 64. He expressed his love and fascination for the work, although he added that accidents in military aviation are not uncommon. About a year ago, he related, his "buddy," while on a flight with him, took a vertical nose dive from 200 feet up and landed in a marsh. He was killed instantly. The engine was telescoped back into the fuselage and otherwise the plane was practically demolished.

In March, while flying in the mountains, Gorton was "jarred up" in an air-pocket which sent his plane into a dive. He sprained his back and shoulders in the sudden hitch.

The lieutenant plans to attend the Aeronautics Day at Des Moines for Iowa fliers next Friday, June 2. Major Commander Thomas Lamphier, who was to make the transatlantic hop with Lindbergh this summer, will be there, it was thought.

In commenting upon "Lindy," the aviator said simply, "He has a head." He pointed especially to his patience in waiting until October for the proposed second Atlantic hop.

Gorton arrived home, April 17. He plans to return about July 1.

W. R. C. to Meet at Church.

A call was issued to the members of the Women's Relief Corps by Mrs. Lena Ruddell, president, to assemble at the Baptist church at 10:45 o'clock Sunday morning where they will join the other service organizations in attendance at the memorial services.

The Campaign Log

MAY 26
By United Press

The farm relief issue was injected into the presidential campaign through failure of the senate to pass the McNary-Haugen bill over the President's veto. Farm bloc leaders now are expected to demand a farm relief plank in the Republican platform.

The national convention of the workers (Communist) party met in New York today. Candidates for President and Vice-President will be chosen Sunday.

A farmers mass meeting was called in Springfield today for discussion of farm relief. The farmers were expected to demand both the Democrats and Republicans insert a farm relief plank in their platforms.

The Republican state convention in Maryland ratified the state primary by which 19 delegates to the Republican national convention were instructed to vote for Herbert Hoover.

Norman Thomas, socialist candidate for president, attacked Tammany and said the present organization of "Mayor Walker and Governor Smith" is responsible for $100,000,000 graft annually.

Paris More Temperate.

Paris, May 26.—Arrests for drunkenness in Paris are decreasing almost every year in Paris. From a high point of 23,058 reached in 1911 came the low point of 7,997 reached last year.

As another indication of the trend the inveterate drunkards' asylum at Ville Evrard has been closed down.

The increase of liquor prices and the suppression of absinthe are among the most logical reasons suggested for the decrease.

Maryville Man Is Chairman of Boys' and Girls' Beef Calf Show—Nodaway County to Enter.

Sedalia, Mo., May 26.—The Missouri State Fair Board announces the creation of a new department, the Boys' and Girls' Beef Calf Show, which will make its debut at the twenty-eighth annual exposition, August 18-25. This makes a total of approximately forty-five departments for the Missouri State Fair and its creation is in accordance with the policy of expansion which is resulting in the Missouri State Fair being rated as one of the largest and most attractive expositions in the union.

C. D. Bellows, Maryville, is director of the Boys' and Girls' Beef Calf Show and the superintendents are: E. A. Trowbridge, Columbia; H. M. Garlock, Columbia; and C. L. Angerer, Jefferson City.

The Missouri State Fair is offering $1,260 in premiums, the Kansas City Stock Yards Company is offering "The Book of Rural Life," and the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association will appropriate a prorata share of a total sum of $4,000, which has been set aside for these contests during 1928.

According to a recent announcement by J. Ross Fleetwood, county extension agent, there will be about six calves shown at the state fair by Nodaway county 4-H club members.

Tax Reduction Bill Goes to President

Coolidge Is Expected to Sign Measure Making $223,495,000 Cut $80,000 Deficit Seen.

Washington, May 26.—The $223,495,000 tax reduction bill was sent to President Coolidge today.

Congressional action was completed by House adoption of the conference report approved yesterday by the Senate. The income tax publicity section of the bill was removed by the upper house in adopting the report yesterday.

Mr. Coolidge is expected to sign the measure which provides:

A 12 per cent flat corporation tax.

Repeal of the 3 per cent automobile tax.

Increase of exemptions on admissions from 75 cents to $3.00.

Exemption of tax on club dues up to $25.

Increase from $20,000 to $30,000 on income recognized as earned income on which a 25 per cent credit is allowed.

Repeal of the cereal beverage tax and reduction of the wine tax.

Repeal of the tax on foreign built yachts.

Reduction of the drug narcotic tax from $6 to $3.

Before the report was adopted, Representative Ramseyer, Republican, Iowa said that on the basis of appropriations figures he received today from Director of the Budget Lord, there would be a treasury deficit of $80,000 next year, exclusive of Boulder Dam, Muscle Shoals and the corn borer bill.

What Jerry Says

I like to take a little stroll
On a Sunday afternoon,
And admire people's flowers—
In the months of May and June.

There is plenty all around us
To make living here worth while,
For of the people whom we meet
The majority will smile.

Some folks have gone to much expense
To set out shrubs and trees
And lots of lovely flower beds,
The passersby to please.

Of course they, too, enjoy them,
And the hundreds who pass by,
But I doubt if many like them
One-half as much as I.

So for every little flower plot,
For well kept gardens, too,
And for every smiling face I see,
I'm thanking all of you.

A Change in Train Schedules Denied

The rumors that have been circulated that the Wabash trains will be returned to their former schedules are "hooey." That there is no truth in the reports was stated Tuesday night by Trainmaster Jas. C. Ferritor.

Mr. Ferritor said that there had been some talk of a change in the schedule, but nothing definite had been done in making any change in the schedule as yet. Should the schedule be changed, there is nothing at present to indicate that the old schedule will be resumed.—Stanberry Headlight.

Liberty Commercial Club Joins Attack

William Jewell President's Usefulness Destroyed, Says Resolution Asking Resignation.

Liberty, Mo., May 26.—A resolution urging Dr. H. C. Wayman to resign as president of William Jewell College adopted by members of the Liberty Commercial Club, was added today to the controversy over the executive's office.

The "usefulness of Wayman as president of the college, regardless of the merits and demerits of any controversy, has been destroyed," the resolution said.

The action was not official in so far as the club is concerned, one member said, and it merely represented the personal opinions of those who signed the resolution.

Chestnut Trees Are Menaced by Blight

Washington, May 26.— America's famous chestnut trees are doomed.

The Agriculture Department says that if there are any chestnut trees in any neighborhood, it may be expected that sooner or later they will be killed by the chestnut blight.

Government scientists have been fighting the blight for more than twenty years without success. The department now admits that nothing can save the chestnut trees.

Chestnut trees furnish valuable hardwood timber and stands are now being replaced by other varieties of trees that will meet domestic demands. Chestnut timber will be missed, however, as it was highly desirable for telephone poles, mine and railroad timber, for fuel, for production of tannin, and for interior and exterior wood work.

Seaplane With Load Breaks Two Records

Philadelphia, May 26.—The seaplane X-PN-12 established a new record for an endurance flight with a pay-load—2,240 pounds—today when it landed at 4:47 a. m., after being in the air 17 hours and 55 minutes.

The plane was piloted by Lieutenant Zeus Soucek and Lieutenant Lisle J. Maxson, with G. C. Poley as machinist.

The old endurance record for heavily loaded seaplanes was broken at 10:16 p. m. last night when the ship had been in the air 10 hours and 23 minutes. The distance mark was smashed at 10:54 p. m. last night when the plane had flown 994 miles.

When the plane landed this morning, it had traveled 1,242 miles.

AMUSEMENTS

MISSOURI.

Sunday and Monday.

"The Harvester," with Orville Caldwell and Natalie Kingston.

Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Wickedness Preferred," with Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle.

Thursday and Friday.

"Chinatown Charlie," with Johnnie Hines. Sponsored Thursday by Maryville Hi-Y Club.

Saturday.

"Upland Rider," with Ken Maynard.

The simple love tale of "The Harvester" is the picture version of the famous novel by Gene Stratton Porter and is directed by her son-in-law, J. Leo Meehan. It shows at the Missouri Sunday and Monday.

The film is faithful throughout to the novel version and the directors in charge have managed to infuse most of the glories of the Limberlost. The exteriors were all taken on the Indiana estate of Mrs. Porter, and are of the same scenes as the story depicts.

La Jolla, California, recognized by world travelers as one of the most beautiful scenic spots of the world, is the background of much of the action in "Wickedness Preferred," the Lew Cody—Aileen Pringle co-starring film which will show Tuesday and Wednesday.

The active and clever Johnnie Hines is a First National attraction at the Missouri Thursday and Friday. And will appear in the film entitled "Chinatown Charlie." The Hi-Y Club will sponsor the picture Thursday night and the proceeds will be added toward the fund to send delegates to Camp Niangua, the State Hi-Y training camp.

The skilled cowboy rider, Ken Maynard, and his Wonder Horse will be offered as the closing bill on next week's theatrical program.

NEW PASTOR BEGINS WORK

REV. R. E. GRAHAM ASSUMES DUTIES AT ST. PATRICK'S

ACQUAINTED ALREADY

Priest Who Comes Here From Stanberry Will Conduct First Masses Tomorrow Morning.

The Rev. Father R. E. Graham, new pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic church, arrived in Maryville this morning. He will give his introductory address to his parish at the principal service tomorrow morning, which will be the 7:30 o'clock mass. The last mass will be at 9:30 o'clock.

"From the acquaintances I have here already and my familiarity with the parish and school, I feel sure I am going to like Maryville and I only hope my work will be as agreeable as in charges I have past served," the Rev. Father Graham said.

"I have visited here on previous occasions and while I have served in other parts of the diocese, I am quite well acquainted with the parish and its surroundings.

"This is the first charge to which I have come where I was acquainted with some of the people. In other places I was a stranger for awhile."

Father Graham pointed out that he had several friends here of other faiths as well as in his own church.

The new pastor has taken full charge of the parish and St. Patrick's school. He succeeds the Rev. Henry F. Niemann, who was made pastor of the Immaculate Conception church at St. Joseph after a pastorate here of thirty-three years.

At Stanberry Since 1918

Father Graham assumed the pastorate at Stanberry in November of 1918. Prior to that time he had been pastor there for three years and nine months. He had gone to Hannibal immediately after finishing his school work.

After his college course at Conception College, Father Graham studied philosophy at Catholic University in Washington, D. C. and finished his work at Saint Viator College at Kankakee, Ill.

Besides his work as pastor of St. Peter's church at Stanberry, Father Graham also has had charge of St. Patrick's church at Ford City for the past ten years. During his pastorate, according to the Stanberry Headlight, the Stanberry church had much growth and development. About $15,000 was spent in that time for work on the church, the building of a modern parish home, furniture for the home, pavement and other things. Of this amount only $2,500 is charged against the church.

Active in Community Work.

The Headlight said of Father Graham:

"The fact that Father Graham is called upon to leave Stanberry is a matter of genuine regret to the citizens of this community. Father Graham numbers his friends here by his acquaintances, and there have been few ministers of any denomination in Stanberry who have had the love of the entire community that Father Graham has had.

"He has always been active in the development of Stanberry and has always worked toward that end. He has been an ardent booster of the Red Cross, having been associated with it since he first came to the town. At the present time, he is president of the local Red Cross work.

"As was mentioned in this newspaper several weeks ago, Father Graham was often called upon to make talks, where the interests of the town were concerned and when the recent radio program was given over Station 9-AQ at Grant City, Father Graham was selected to make that talk.

Follows Father Niemann.

"It will be the wish of his many friends here that Father Graham may see the excellent advancement that his predecessor had here. The Rev. Henry F. Neimann went from the pastorate here to Maryville and after serving 33 years there, was promoted to the pastorate of the Immaculate Conception Church in St. Joseph.

"Maryville isn't so far away and the many friends of the Graham family may know that while they will not be an active part of Stanberry, this town will still almost claim them as their very own, and will wish for them much joy, happiness and success in their own new surroundings."

Audience Is Large as Vernon Barrett Gives Voice Recital

Vernon J. Barrett, tenor, who sang his senior voice recital in Social Hall at the State Teachers College last night is the first man ever to have been graduated from the conservatory of music here under its present regime.

Mr Barrett is a pupil of Bernhardt Bronson, head of the voice department at the college. He has a beautiful lyric tenor voice and won the admiration of everyone in his large audience by singing through a program as heavy as his was. His unaffected manner, clear enunciation, excellent breath control, and significant interpretations, especially on the songs of the latter part of his program, were points deserving particular commendation.

The program opened with two songs from the classical school, "Laschia chopiango," from "Rinaldo," and the aria, "Waft, Her, Angels, Through the Skies," from "Jeptha," both by Handel. To these Mr. Barrett gave a very dignified interpretation.

Next followed a group of German leider. Those songs included were "Impatience" and "Faith in Spring," both by Shubert, and "Moonlight" and a very taxing number, "The Hidalgo," both by Shumann. Probably the outstanding number of this group was the "Moonlight."

One of the best done numbers on the program was the aria, "The Tiny Hand Is Frozen," from "La Boheme," (Puccini). The aria occurs in the first act of the opera. The scene is laid in the Student's Quarter in 1830. The song is sung by Rudolph, a poet, to the little flower maker, Mimi, when she comes down from her upstairs apartment to borrow a candle light.

Another interesting group included, "Ah, Moon of My Delight," from "The Persian Garden," (L. Lehmann), and a modern song "Dinna Forget," (Dichmont).

Mr. Barrett reached his intepretative height in his last group, and particularly in his last song, "The Last Hour," (Kramer). Other numbers in this group were, "The Asra," (Rubinstein), "The Princess," (Grieg), and "Thou are so like a Flower," (Chadwick).

Mrs. F. M. Townsend accompanitd Mr. Barrett at the piano. Her accompaniments were played with ease and feeling, and added to the success of the young singer's program.

In addition to the invited guests, a number of visiting teachers from other Missouri Teachers College, and a number of faculty members from the college attended the recital.

Mr. Barrett was assisted by Paschal Monk, who played a group of piano solos.

"Hello Cheyenne."

A late Tom Mix picture, "Hello Cheyenne," will officially open the theater Monday night, the management announced. It is hoped the building will be ready tonight for a pre-review showing of the Monday night picture, but no definite announcement was made.

The new brick front is another improvement to Maryville's business section. An entirely new roof has replaced the old.

The Polar ventilating system, operated by a five horsepower motor, assures satisfactory ventilation.

The interior has been tinted in light colors.

An eight by twenty-two foot stage will make possible vaudeville acts at the Electric, but though its capacity will not accommodate large groups of entertainers.

New seats and new flooring are among other improvements.

ASSESSMENT STARTS SOON

WORK IN THIS COUNTY TO BEGIN SOON AFTER JUNE 1.

A FARM CENSUS ALSO

Latter Is Separate and Has Nothing to Do With Taxes.—For Farmer's Knowledge.

The annual property assessment and farm census will start in Nodaway county June 1, or soon afterward, by several of the assessors of Nodaway county. George H. Meek, Polk township assessor, will probably start taking the assessment in this township the Monday following the first of June, he said.

The agricultural census is separate from the property assessment valuing and has nothing to do with the taxes. The census listings are mailed weekly to the State Board of Agriculture at Jefferson City, are used each month in the state-federal crop reports and released to all alike at the same hour.

Mr. Meek said today that he was expecting to receive the farm census lists about June 7, according to information received from Jefferson City. The assessors get 4 cents for each farm list.

The lists are sent direct to each assessor, but a few preliminary lists have been sent out in advance.

There has spread abroad through several counties of the state an incorrect, false impression concerning the purposes and service rendered by and through an agricultural census, the floating stories leaving the impression that this is a law peculiar to Missouri. In fact, practically all of the important states of the Union have a similar annual census law, says agricultural secretary Jewell Mayes, in an authorized statement, made today. He discusses census laws further, as follows:

For Farmer's Knowledge.

"Another report has spread abroad in this area, alleging that the farm census information is gathered for the "packers and other big business," and that it is not used by farmers, and that it is of no value to local business and the newspapers, alleging further that the five and ten year federal census is all-sufficient, the floating suspicious and rumors declaring that an annual state agricultural census is unnecessary and useless.

"Without difference of opinion, all leaders in agriculture and country life unite in unanimously agreeing that an annual agricultural census is vitally helpful to producers, in both production and marketing. The monthly crop reports of the states and the federal government are efficient, only to the degree that they are backed up and founded on state agricultural census information correctly collected by the local assessors.

"The five and ten year federal census facts are gathered too seldom to be of concise from year-to-year value, if used alone. The "swing" of crop acreages, during five or ten years, throws the federal census figures out of line, excepting as they are annually balanced by state census data.

An Annual Report.

"The honest farmer who would desire to refuse to list his acreages of crops would be seeking to avoid what is required by the state and federal governments of all other lines of business. Annually, or oftener, all factories and lines of commerce make public their production—and in ever so many lines, the production reports are made public either monthly, weekly or daily.

"Without census information, the newspapers would have no basis for marketing or production news worth printing. Without crop reports or agricultural statistics, the farming industry would suffer beyond measure at the hands of unbridled speculation."

Farm Census Questions.

Secretary Mayes has certified to all county clerks, county assessors and township assessors the official form of the questions required in the state agricultural census for 1928 to be asked by and by law required of all farmers (both owners and renters) along with the regular assessment, starting June 1.

The Farm Census queries are the same as for last year, with the addition of the one question, "Number of cows, two years old and older."

Chinese Students Forbidden Sports

Peking, May 26.—Competitive sports are injurious to students, and therefore are banned from the higher schools of North China, according to an order issued by Liu Cheh, Minister of Education under Chang Tso-lin.

Mrs. Lowden, Heiress, Wife of a Blacksmith's Son

Denies Story She Gave Dad's Pullman Cars Those "Minnehaha" Names.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of articles by Allene Sumner, Democrat-Forum and NEA Service writer, on prospective "First Ladies." Miss Sumner today tells of Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, wife of the former governor of Illinois who is now a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

By ALLENE SUMNER

Oregon, Ill., May 26.—Florence Pullman, daughter of the late George M. Pullman, millionaire founder of a certain company that causes thousands of "Georges" and "Johns" to receive handfuls of quarters every morning when the sleepers roll into New York or Chicago or Cleveland or St. Louis, is the present Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, wife of the former governor of Illinois and one of several possible future "First Ladies."

It is no strain on the imagination to believe that a Pullman ggirl had certain advantages in the way of education and travel and social contacts which might make an ideal First Lady.

Florence Pullman was one of the society debs of 30 or so years ago. She along with Alice Roosevelt and Ruth Hanna, gave the great reading public its daily treat with tales of what "those rich girls" are doing now.

That Name Story.

Florence Pullman, one story had it, "thought up all the names" for her father's sleeping cars. She was a student of Indian and Hawaiian tribal lore and christened cars "Laughing Water," "Minnehaha" or "Boola Boola" in bewitching rapidity.

The story continued to have it that every time daughter Florence broke a bottle of champagne over one of her daddy's new cars, he put a silver dollar in her pig bank.

As Florence Pullman grew older the silver dollar, according to legend, expanded into something like $10,000 a year which daddy Pullman paid his daughter for "thinking up names" for his cars.

Mrs. Lowden laughs, not too amusedly, today at these tales.

Denies the Part.

"As a matter of fact," she says, "I never named one of father's cars in all my life. But the public would keep its story."

The public had its story, too, when "that Pullman girl" was engaged to young Frank Lowden, the son of a Sunrise, Minnesota, blacksmith, and a mere practicing attorney whom she had met at the World's Fair in St. Louis.

Newspapers shrieked "America's" Richest Heiress Weds Blacksmith's Son —Trousseau Rivals That of Princess," to how the young attorney was going to keep up the pace in the way of expenses expected as a matter of course by the millionaire car man's daughter.

Housekeeper, Too.

But Florence Pullman had been trained to cook and sew and be a housekeeper, too, just as she has reared her own three daughters. She never, either as a girl or matron, put fashion, the appearance of things, the smart thing to do or see or visit, above the sensible, comfortable, personal choice. Several years ago, when her father died, she and her sister divided the Pullman thirty millions.

Even today she claims to detest fashionable resorts such as Palm Beach and the like, where custom decrees rich people shall go.

The 4500-acre farm on which the Lowdens live in Oregon, Ill., is of the plain garden variety. The house is English style, low, rambly, gabled, with a velvety green lawn rolling down to Rock River.

The recreations and social life of the Lowdens is no more according to the social Hoyles than any other phase of their living. They love to go back to Sunrise, Minn., in the winter time, bundle up in old clothes and coast on bobsleds down all the hills Frank Lowden knew and loved as the village blacksmith's son.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden . . . they enjoy revisiting Sunrise, Minn., to coast down the hills Frank roamed as the village blacksmith's son.

There were tales of dozens of gowns and coats and suits and shoes and sets of lingerie to the total of a staggering sum. There were speculative stories as Charitable Work.

Mrs. Lowden prefers constructive charitable and civic work to social folderol.

The Lowden estate here has a summer camp for poor children. Loads of wizened, puny, city-drained children are brought every week of summer to be fed eggs and creamy milk and go back a little more able to live.

Lowden was governor of Illinois during the war. Mrs. Lowden headed the Woman's Council of National Defense for Illinois, offered her home as a convalescent hospital, knitted sweaters and socks and inspired the women of her state.

The four Lowden children are: one son, Pullman, and three daughters, Frances, Harriet, and Florence. Frances is Mrs. Albert Madelener, Jr.; Harriett is Mrs. John B. Drake, Jr; and Florence is not married, but has beaus galore.

Negro Found, Half Crazed, in Shaft Where 200 Other Miners Lost Lives.

Mather, Pa., May 26.—Mumbling incoherently, John Wade, negro worker in the Mather mine, lay in a hospital here today after being rescued from the mine shaft, where he spent 147 hours aften an explosion.

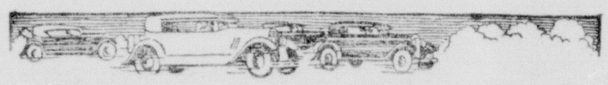
Wade was found last night, two and a half miles in the interior of the shaft. He was half crazed when rescue workers came upon him. Apparently he had wandered from section to section of the mine where 200 workers were killed, seeking an outlet from the gas fumed interior.

Rescurers were unable to determine how Wade had managed to live through the trying ordeal, while other workers in the mine were killed.

Rescue workers continued digging through the shattered mine shaft today, seeking the additional bodies.

3 Die in German Plane's Crash.

Berlin, May 26.—The pilot and two passengers were killed when a Junkers airplane fell and burst into flames today between Dortmund and Frankfurt. Of the two other passengers in the plane, one was injured and the other escaped unhurt.



A Gasoline that spells in big letters

Up With The Times

Automotive engineers have known for a long time that the power output of an internal combustion engine could be increased by compressing the fuel charge into a smaller space before explosion takes place—increasing the compression ratio.

Such motors would no doubt have been introduced long ago if a proper fuel had been available, but with ordinary gasoline there is that ping or knock so noticeable.

The largest automobile manufacturers developed a gasoline—HI RATIO—treated with tetra ethyl lead, thus causing the gasoline to burn SLOWLY, thereby reducing the tendency to knock, and THEN motors with a higher compression ratio became almost universal in the cars to today.

"Hi Ratio" costs more to make; costs more to buy; is worth more to the customer.

CONGRESS AT SESSION'S END

MUCH IMPORTANT LEGISLATION ENACTED SPEEDILY.

HARRIED BY POLITICS

More Than 1,200 Bills Passed and 500 New Laws Created—Six Investigations.

Washington, May 26.—Although harried by presidential politics and involved in numerous disputes with the President, the seventieth congress soon will adjourn with an almost unequalled modern record for important legislation swiftly enacted.

Tax reduction, flood control, farm relief, Muscle Shoals, radio control and alien property subjects have been dealt with. More than 1200 bills have been passed. Nearly 500 new laws have been enacted.

Under the leadership of a new Republican regime, the congress has plowed through 14,000 bills introduced in the House and more than 5,000 in the Senate. Conciliation and compromise have been the order since the new congress met last December for six swift months of work. Under this spirit, few of the sensational battles which have characterized previous congresses have been staged this year.

Six Senate Investigations.

Six important senatorial investigations were launched into the Teapot Dome oil case, the soft coal strike, the publication of spurious Mexican state "documents" by Hearst newspapers, the violent fluctuation of the cotton market, the sinking of the submarine S14 and the conduct of the presidential campaign.

But not much came from any of them. The Teapot Dome inquiry developed that four oil men including Harry Sinclair of the Sinclair Oil companies and Robert W. Stewart of the Standard Oil company of Indiana had secreted a fund of more than $3,200,000 in a mysterious Continental Trading Company of Canada. Contempt and perjury proceedings were started by the senate against Stewart, but the statute of limitations prevented any other prosecutions. The acts were committed more than three years ago.

The coal strike investigation developed valuable information upon which some effort may be made next session to propose remedial legislation. The same is true of the cotton inquiry.

Documents Forged.

The Hearst investigation disclosed only that someone had forged the documents published and that there was no foundation for the charge made in one of them that four senators had been offered large sums of money for their position on Mexican relations.

The investigation of the so-called power combine proposed by Senator Walsh of Montana was referred to the federal trade commission by a vote of 46 to 31 after one of the most bitter fights of the session.

At the outset in December the House set the pace by passing the tax reduction bill before the Christmas recess. The vote was overwhelming, 365 to 24. But Senate Republicans were fearful that the $290,000,000 reduction it provided was more than the treasury could stand so the bill was held forcibly in the senate finance committee until near the close of the session when it was reported out and passed in a modified form.

The peaceful tenor of the session was best illustrated by the successful negotiations to straighten out the three-sided differences among President Coolidge, the senate and the house over flood control legislation. The bill first passed the senate March 28 by a vote of 79 to 0. Mr. Coolidge served notice he would veto the measure unless it was changed. Some changes were made in the house before the bill passed there 254 to 91. Those changes did not suit Mr. Coolidge and the bill remained in conference for weeks until a measure suitable to Mr. Coolidge was written from the bills passed by both houses.

Muscle Shoals Bill Passed.

The power of the new regime's negotiation policy was illustrated in passage of the McNary-Haugen bill with limited debate. The measure passed the senate 53 to 23 and the House 204 to 121.

The case of Muscle Shoals is similar. The question has been kicking around in congress for ten years. Every year some sort of bill passed one house but failed in the other. Nothing was done until this session when, without attracting any national attention, the senate adopted the Norris resolution for limited government operation 48 to 25 and the house later passed a bill along similar lines 251 to 165.

Compromise was likewise the spirit which pushed through a modified Jones merchant marine bill. A potential government operation project first passed the senate 53 to 31. The House changed the bill completely, giving a $10,000,000 mail subsidy to American ship operators. Western Independents threatened a filibuster in the senate. The Republican leaders offered to let the McNary-Haugen conference report through without a record vote or debate, if they would let the modified Jones bill pass. The compromise worked. The changed Jones bill passed 51 to 20.

Less important legislation, such as The Dill White bill extending the life of the radio commission for one year, the $250,000,000 public buildings bill, the alien property bill, the bill increasing retirement pay of army officers and the migratory bird bill, were handled in the same manner.

The McMaster resolution counseling tariff revision at this session of congress was adopted by the early 54 to 34 early in the session, but nothing was done about it in the house where tariff legislation must originate.

Average Girl Is Underweight and Wears Too Few Clothes, A Harvard Medical Expert Says

Only 12 Ounces of Apparel, Worn by Many, Leads to Illness, Dr. Reginald Fitz Finds.

By NEAService.

Chicago, May 26.—What are the average young men and young women like in this day of flaming Youth, anyway?

Dr. Reginald Fitz, associate professor of medicine at the Harvard University Medical School, can answer that question about as well as anyone can, at least as far as physical characteristics go. Not long ago he made a series of examinations of a large number of college boys and girls, ranging in age from 19 to 25; and in the current issue of Hygeia, the magazine of the American Medical Association, he summarizes his findings.

The average girl, he finds, is, first of all, a bit underweight.

To Two Extremes.

"She tends deliberately to undernourish herself in order to keep thin," he explains. "One gets the impression that a girl's present aim is to keep thin at all costs; failing to attain this end she may become discouraged and conclude that the effort is more bother than it is worth, in which case she may go to the other extreme and placidly eat herself into a condition of abnormal obesity."

In the second place, she doesn't wear quite enough clothing.

Dr. Fitz found that two pounds of clothing, including shoes, is considered excessive by the average girl; 12 ounces seems just about right to a great many.

These two traits have effects which a doctor can readily spot.

Too light clothing makes the average girl constantly cold—in the winter time, at any rate. Body temperatures fully two degrees below normal are often encountered; blood pressure also tends to be subnormal. The result is not good for the health.

Constantly Below Par.

"She"—the average girl—"is constantly below par and thus liable to minor infections in the way of colds or sore throats and may readily incur more serious troubles," writes Dr. Fitz. "Thus in my group it was found that 36 per cent of the women had lost two or more weeks' time from minor illnesses during the preceding two years, while only 16 per cent of the men had been bothered by a similar loss of time as a result of illness.

"Even more striking was the number of girls who complained of getting easily tired, a complaint almost unheard of among the men. This, perhaps, is a more serious matter. The modern girl requires pep at all costs. Her popularity and dash depend entirely on this altogether indescribable characteristic. It is not especially to be wondered at, therefore, that the modern, undernourished girl who continually feels cold, who is liable to minor infections and gets easily tired on very moderate effort, acquires the habit of obtaining pep by artificial means."

Good Bill of Health.

On the whole, however, Dr. Fitz gives the average girl a good bill of health.

"She was active and graceful in the handling of her body, had good posture, was fairly tall, had well formed shoulders and a small waist, was perhaps a little thin, but well muscled and sturdy," he writes. "On the whole, she appeared to be perfectly healthy, both in mind and body, and was much more of the athletic than the flapper type."

He lists a few physical characteristics of the average girl thus:

Age, 22 years. Height, 5 feet 4 inches. Weight, 126 pounds. Temperature, 98.2 degrees. Pulse rate, 88. Blood pressure, 120.

Average Boy Is Strong and Healthy.

So much for the average girl. And the average boy?

The boy tends to keep his weight up to par better than the girl. Indeed, he is apt to be slightly overweight rather than underweight. He enjoys good health and is decidedly of the athletic type—sometimes to a greater extent than is good for him.

"They tend, perhaps, to lead too strenuous an existence," he writes. "It is a question whether so much violent and spasmodic exercise as many are taking for recreation may not prove to have a detrimental influence on the heart and blood vessels by throwing on them an unnecessary load which will be harmful in the long run."

Here are his figures on the average boy:

Age, 22 years. Height, 5 feet 10 inches. Weight, 159 pounds. Temperature, 98.7 degrees. Pulse rate, 82. Blood pressure, 129.

All in all Dr. Fitz is highly encouraged about modern youth.

"On the whole, the youth of today are a fine crowd of young men and women," he writes. "As they have their innings, they will carry on the work of the country in the best possible way. No doubt they will, in turn, presently come to be more or less bewildered by the conduct of some of their own young people."

After making physical examinations of a large number of college boys and girls, Dr. Reginald Fitz, associate professor of medicine at Harvard, arrived at these "average" types. Note the proper heights and weights.

FATHER'S DAY IS DEFINITELY SET, JUNE 17

Nearly Twenty Years Before Third Sunday in June Became Generally Accepted.

Since the annual celebration of Mother's Day has been definitely established, the idea has been conceived and gradually worked up to have an annual Fathers' Day. This day has been definitely established and June 17 will mark the sixth anniversary of Fathers' Day.

In 1910 some farsighted woman decided that the homely virtues of dad had been neglected long enough and conceived the idea of having a Fathers' Day. The idea was slow in its conception and it was nearly twenty years before the matter was definitely settled for there were so many different dates set for the big event. Finally it was settled that the third Sunday in June should be the day.

Photographs of Cast Used to Boost Play

Original photographs of the cast which will appear tonight in "Twelfth Night," the senior class play of the College, were on display in the business district today. The photographs were taken by a local photographer and show effectively the costumes to be worn and the appearance of the stage.

The lighting effects, according to those in charge, will be better than at any other play in the history of the College.

The lights will add the effect of elaborate curtains and tapestry work. Lighting will be especially good in the court scene in the play.

Delegates Back From Odd Fellow Meeting

Mrs. Fern Crull Nominated for Warden at Columbia Convention—New Hall Dedicated.

The county delegates to the State Odd Fellows and Rebekahs convention, which was in session four days this week in Columbia, have returned with favorable reports.

Mrs. Fern Crull was honored with a nomination as warden. The election does not take place until December and the winner will not be announced until May, 1929. Mrs. Crull has been made chairman of the mileage committee for the convention next year, which will be held at Springfield. It is her duty to route all delegates to the convention city.

In reporting the state meeting, Mrs. Crull said, "We had just a lovely time."

At the opening session on Monday addresses of welcome were given the 500 or more delegates, together with many visitors, by the mayor of Columbia; Dr. Hudson, professor of philosophy, University of Missouri; the grand master of the Odd Fellows; and the past president of the Rebekahs. Responses were made by various other Odd Fellows and Rebekahs.

Monday night the new Odd Fellows hall at Columbia was dedicated. A program was given by the children of the Odd Fellows Home at Liberty and a concert by the boys' band.

A sight-seeing trip about Columbia was the feature Wednesday afternoon. More than eighty cars formed the parade.

During the course of the convention a memorial was held for all deceased Odd Fellows and Rebekahs.

A lodge drill was followed by a parade and review of the R. O. T. C. of the University of Missouri.

Such a large crowd was present at the conferring of degrees by the Bucklin Rebekah Lodge that it was repeated in order that everybody might see it.

The convention was called to a close at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Those from this county who attended were:

Mr. and Mrs. Fern Crull, Harry King, Mrs. J. J. Turner, Mrs. Lila Cable, Maryville; Mrs. Belle Nelson, Manning Moore, Ravenwood, Mr. Brown, Burlington Junction.

The accident happened last night when Arthur, with his brothers, Ted and Bud, were hunting pigeons in a barn on the property of Joe Brant, a neighbor. Arthur lost his footing and fell to the ground floor, fifteen feet below him.

He was attended by a Maryville physician.

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, May 26.—Favorable weather reports and predictions combined to send wheat lower on the board of trade today. Corn followed with similar movement, while oats felt the influence of the downturn and lost fractionally.

At the close wheat was off 1 to 2½c; corn had lost ⅝c to 1⅝c; and oats were unchanged to ⅝c down. Provisions were lower.

Wheat sentiment was generally unsettled but inclined to weakness due to prevailing weather uncertainty. Showers were reported in the American Northwest and predicted for the Canadian belt. Trading was quiet. No export business was reported due to foreign exchanges observing holidays. The cash market was ½ to 1c lower with 334 cars received.

Oats showed more strength than other grains in a featureless market. Receipts were 108 cars and the cash market was unchanged.

SAND GREENS VEXING

Bill Bathie, Pro, Has Total of 79 Over Local Course.—Nebraska Champion Makes 84.

The Scotch pro of Happy Hollow Club of Omaha, and the Nebraska state champion failed to shoot par golf on the Maryville Country Club course yesterday afternoon at the official outdoor opening of the local golf club.

Bill Bathie, professional, shot a 40 and a 39 in a foursome in which he played twice over the nine-hole course with Floyd Porter, Nebraska champion, F. G. Shoemaker, jr., and Bill Carey, all of the Happy Hollow club.

Par for the nine holes is 36 and has been made only once by a member of the Maryville club. O. M. Watkins shot it last summer.

The Omaha visitors said they were unaccustomed to sand greens and eight of the nine greens at the local club are sand. Mr. Bathie said that with a few more times over the course to get used to the sand greens he could get around in the par number of strokes.

The spectators declared that Porter played the prettiest game of the foursome, although he took a 42 each time around. Mr. Shoemaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Shoemaker, sr., of Maryville, played the course in 46 and 43, while Carey took a 51 and a 53.

Bathie made par on holes No. 1, 2, 3, 5 and 9 his first round, and made a birdie on No. 7. He shot a bogey on Nos. 4 and 6 and was one over bogey on No. 8. The second time around he made par on 1, 2, 3, bogey on 4 and 6, birdies on No. 7 and 9 and again was one over bogey on No. 8.

BANKERS WIN, BUT GET THE WORST OF IT

Printers Lose, 19-0, but Financiers Knock Own Fingers Awry in Doing It.

The Bankers unmercifully walloped the Printers yesterday at the College in the third twilight baseball game of the season, but at that the Bankers got the worst of it. Walter Davis suffered a broken finger and Raymond Groves is going around with a finger swelled up. Oh yes, the score was 19 to 0.

The Bankers batted around about three times in the first inning with Cummings on the mound. Seven or more successive hits played havoc with the Printers' defense and just as soon as the Bankers got a man on base he was brought home with a safe (?) hit.

The game was delayed in starting until 5:30 because of the late arrival of the Printers' gang and only five innings were played.

The print shop was beaten out of a job today when Raymond Groves learned publicity would be given the game, as he was intending to have some hand bills printed giving the results of the game unless the newspaper carried an account of the slaughter.

No official score was kept so the Printers are taking the Bankers word that 19 runs were scored.

Ernest Ellis pitched for the Bankers and held the Ink Slingers to measly grounders to the infield.

Markets 265-Pound Hogs Friday at $9.45

Ray Slawson of Nodaway county accompanied a shipment of hogs to the St. Joseph livestock market Friday which sold at $9.45. The drove averaged 265 pounds. The animals were purebred Poland-Chinas. Walter Schmidt of the same locality disposed of seventy-eight head of 216-pound butchers of mixed breeds which sold at $9.60. C. A. Skeed, also from Nodaway county, cashed hogs on the market Friday. —St. Joseph Stock Yards Journal.

JAPAN FAVORS 6-POWER PACT

COUNTRY AGREES TO PARTAKE IN NEGOTIATIONS.

ACCEPTS U. S. DRAFT

Japan's Note Says Government Sympathizes With Proposal of Kellogg for Abolition of War.

Washington, May 26.—Japan replied today to the American anti-war treaty proposals, agreeing to participate in negotiations among six powers for such a treaty.

The reply was an acceptance of the American draft. The Japanese pointed out that their rights of self-defense and their commitments under existing international agreements must be protected in any pact they sign, but suggested that these provisions need not be written into the treaty.

Acceptance of Secretary Kellogg's plan for a brief and unqualified treaty is, according to the official view here, implied in the last paragraph, which reads:

"The proposal of the United States is understood to contain nothing which would refuse to independent states the right of self defense, and nothing which is incompatible with the obligation of agreements guaranteeing the public peace, such as are embodied in the covenant of the League of Nations, and the treaties of Locarno. Accordingly, the Imperial Government firmly believes that unanimous agreement on a mutually accepted text for such a treaty as is contemplated is well capable of realization by discussion between the six powers referred to, and they would be happy to collaborate with cordial good will in the discussion with the purpose of securing what they are persuaded is the common desire of all the peoples of the world, namely, the cessation of wars and the definite establishment among the nations of an era of permanent and universal peace."

The note further said "That the government of Japan sympathize warmly with the high and beneficient aims of the proposal now made by the United States which they take to imply the entire abolition of the institution of war, and that they will be glad to render their most cordial co-operation toward the attainment of that aim."

Tokio's note, which was signed by Premier Tanaka and handed to Ambassador MacVeagh today, was described by Secretary Kellogg as favorable, but he refused to comment further.

Committee to Frame Inter-Faculty Plan

Four Members Named After Meeting of Visiting Instructors at College This Morning.

Fifteen members of the faculties of the Kirksville, Warrensburg, and Cape Girardeau Teachers Colleges and most of the faculty members of the Maryville College met in a two-hour session at the College this morning to discuss problems common to the teacher-training institutions of the State.

At the conclusion of the program a committee composed of Homer T. Phillips, Maryville; Warren Jones, Kirksville; Miss Gertrude Hosey, Warrensburg; and Mrs. Christine Randolph, Cape Girardeau, was appointed to plan for a similar meeting next year and to report upon the feasibility of perfecting a permanent organization of the faculty members of the five teachers colleges of Missouri.

The business meeting this morning was spent in discussing educational problems confronting the state colleges of Missouri. Such questions as standardization of curriculi, quality of high school teaching, evaluating secondary work and supervision of teachers were taken up. Talks were made by most of the visiting instructors and by many of the local faculty. Mr. Phillips presided at the meeting.

The visitors were guests of the various members of the Maryville faculty today at luncheon. This afternoon will be spent in visiting the different departments of the College and "talking shop" generally. Tonight the guests will be entertained with a dinner at the Maryville Country Club, after which they will be taken to the College to see the Senior play, "Twelfth Night."

All the visiting teachers arrived yesterday afternoon and were guests last night at a dinner at Residence Hall. After dinner they attended the graduate voice recital of Vernon Barrett, given in the Social Hall at the College.

The following visiting faculty members are here for the conference:

Kirksville: Miss Berniece Beggs, cooperative librarian; Warren Jones, English; Fred S. Russell, agriculture; Paul O. Selby, Commerce; Jacob Wilhelm Heyd, German; John Harty, physics; Miss Minnie Kennedy, home economics; and Miss Myrna Lauer, English.

Warrensburg: Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bayles of the training high school; Miss Gertrude Hosey, education; Miss Maud Beamer, Latin, and Miss Ella Groenwold, home economics.

Cape Girardeau: Miss Esther Knehans, rural education, and Mrs. Christine Randolph, secretary to the president.

POLAR SHIP IS MISSING

On May 12, 1926, Amundsen, Nobile and Lincoln Ellsworth, American, flew across the North Pole in the dirigible Norge.

Supply Ship Ready.

Copenhagen, May 26.—The supply ship of General Umberto Nobile, Italian explorer, today was reported ready to put out from Kings Bay as the Dirigible Italia, long overdue there from its flight to the North Pole, fought the rigors of the northern climates.

A heavy storm was reported breaking about Kings Bay. The storm swept the Northern town, base for Nobile's northern expedition, early last night and additional reports said it was breaking both east and west of the dirigible's base.

The storm at the landing point may have caused Nobile to turn his sturdy craft toward some other port.

Ice Blocks Seas.

It was for this reason that the Citta Di Milano, the supply ship, was ready to leave. It had been prepared to go out of Kings Bay through the afternoon as hour after hour passed without word of the polar dirigible.

However, it was felt here that the trip of the Citta Di Milano would be of little avail.

A heavy ice pack, blocking the passageway, was reported just north of Kings Bay. It seemed almost a remote chance that the vessel would be able to proceed to some point where Nobile might decide to land his dirigible.

Believe Aerial Snapped.

Oslo, Norway, May 26.—The Aerial of the dirigible Italia's radio apparatus has been snapped short by clogged ice, according to advices reaching here today from Kings Bay.

This is a similar situation to that of the aircraft which Roald Amundsen flew over the North Pole in 1926. For several hours his craft was not heard of and a snapped aerial was said to be the cause.

No recent word has come from the Italia and the snapped aerial is believed the reason.

Although the dirigible is many hours overdue it was said here that the dirigible—even if forced to land in some barren Island—was provisioned for from 30 to 60 days.

Wireless Stations Listen.

Vadsoe, Norway, May 26.—Wireless stations along the entire Norwegian coast today vainly attempted to establish communication with Gen. Umberto Nobile aboard the polar dirigible Italia.

No reports have been received here, but a landing crew was sent to the flying field and maintained an all-night watch in event the dirigible should swing over this city and try a landing. It was considered likely the Italia might be heading down the Norwegian coast.

Some thought, however, that storms might have swept the Italia to Finland or the Siberian steppes.

Hope in Better Weather.

Kings Bay, Spitzenbergen, May 26.—Improved weather in the southern regions of the Arctic Sea today brought hope that the polar dirigible, Italia might fight its way out of the stormy northern skies, although no direct word had been heard from the craft here for almost 24 hours.

At 11 a. m. today—7 a. m. Eastern Standard Time—the dirigible had been in the air about 78½ hours and was almost 39 hours overdue at its hangar here.

Early Thursday morning she left the north pole and started voyaging down toward Kings Bay, her base. Rapid progress was made for a period. Then head winds set in. Storms broke. The flying speed was decreased. Ice coated her sides. One motor became disabled.

No Direct ord.

Since noon yesterday there had been no direct word and the last reports were depressing. At that time the Italian explorer, who twice has looked down on the north pole from a dirigible's cabin, said progress was slow.

The course had been changed to the northward and Nobile hoped to reach the Mossum Islands.

Wireless receivers believe the Mossum Islands may mean Mossum Bay, sum Islands may mean Mossel Bay, near 86 degrees latitude.

Then came silence. Nobile had kept in regular contact with his supply ship, the Citta di Milano, through the entire northern expedition, but since noon Friday nothing has been sent.

Two Good Teams

Reported Near Spitzbergen.

Berlin, May 26.—The Berlin Zeitung am Mittag today published what purported to be direct word from the dirigible Italia, sent at 7 p .m. Friday.

The message said:

"We are near Spitzbergen but it is impossible to tell when we will land. All aboard are well.—Nobile."

The message said the dirigible was fighting powerful headwinds and that visibility was poor.

Can Drift for Week.

The dirigible had 7,200 kilograms of fuel aboard when it left Kings Bay Wednesday morning. Probably this supply has been exhausted, but the big semi-rigid craft still will be able to remain in the air—drifting at the mercy of the dangerous northern winds—for at least a week.

It was assumed here that, if the Italia is drifting, northwest winds will drive the airship towards Siberia.

That assumption, however, is based on the belief that General Umberto Nobile still is fighting the elements. There is the possibility that the Italian explorer—one of the few men to cruise over the north pole—has seen he can make no headway and has landed his ice covered craft some place in the arctic solitudes.

Should the dirigible be brought to a landing on the northeast extremity of Spitzenbergen, there is a chance that trappers might save its crew.

NAME FOURTH M. E. BISHOP

DEADLOCK ON THIRD IS BROKEN LAST NIGHT.

VOTE TWENTY TIMES

Stirring Speech and a "Flop Over" Ends Balloting—Name Dry Delegation.

Kansas City, Mo., May 26.—The Methodist Episcopal conference today elected a fourth bishop who will serve only as a missionary bishop, his powers being limited to the foreign area under his jurisdiction.

The new bishop was Dr. Edwin F. Lee, of Singapore, India. Election of Dr. Lee was made because of special needs of the Malay Peninsula.

Kansas City, Mo., May 26.—A plan to merge two foreign Episcopacy areas, a stirring speech against such a consolidation, and a "flop over" that would have done credit to any political convention all aided in making a Methodist bishop of the Rev. Stanley Jones of India.

His election as the third bishop last night broke a three day deadlock and immediately upon reading of the twentieth ballot which elected Jones, the conference broke into the song, "Hallelujah, Thine the Glory." He polled 560 votes, 519 being necessary to elect.

After failing to elect a bishop late yesterday, the conference adopted a motion to refer the matter to the committee on Episcopacy, and awaited their report. After several hours of arguing, the committee recommended the consolidations of the areas of Manila, Philippine Islands, and Seoul, Korea.

Instantly there were addresses against the consolidation. Stirring speeches were made by Jones and Helen Kim, of Korea. Hitherto receiving but scant notice as a bishop, Jones easily won the election on the next ballot after the conference voted to continue balloting and defeated the merger plan.

Besides electing the third bishop, the conference last night named 10 delegates who will appear before the national committees of the major parties and demand that dry platforms and dry candidates be favored at their national conventions.

BANDITS HIDE IN "BAD LANDS"

were in Denver, after a patrolman had fired on an automobile similar to the one in which the robbers escaped here early today.

The bandits, who killed A. N. Parrish, president of the First National Bank of Lamar, and his son, John, cashier of the bank, during the robbery, were believed to have killed two other men in their flight.

Two Other Victims.

One is Dr. W. W. Wineinger of Dighton, Kan., whose body was found 25 miles south of Oakley, Kan., yesterdal with shot-gun wounds in the head. The other is E. U. Kessingner, cashier, whom the bandits abduced when they robbed the bank. No word of him has been received since the holdup, and he is believed to have been slain.

The bandits, to all appearances, lured Dr. Wineinger away from his home to dress wounds received by the bandits in a gun fight at the bank. The physician received a call saying that a man had been hurt severely in an accident, and nothing more was heard from him until his body was found in a ravine between Oakley and Scott City.

Armed With Machine Gun.

Kansas authorities believed they had forced the bandits into hiding in the brakes along the Smoky Hill river, somewhere between Oakley and Scott City. The pursuers were prepared for a battle, since the bandidts were reported to be armed with a machine gun.

All bridges from Dodge City to the Colorado state line were guarded closely.

May Have Tortured.

Authorities of Oakley and Scott City, Kansas, were investigating the possibility that Dr. W. W. Wineinger, physician believed to have been kidnaped by the bandits with the idea that he would treat a wounded member of the gang, may have been tortured before being put to death.

Dr. Wineinger's body was found between the two cities. It bore evidences of a severe beating and it was thought that, discovering the men with whom he was dealing, the physician may have refused to help them. A note left in his car near where his body was found referred to "doctors and murderers" and it was held that the wounded bandit may have died and the others taken vengeance on the physician.

Dr. Wineinger's bandages, medicine case and coat were found at intervals along a highway leading toward Colby, Kan., and it was thought the bandits may have fled in that direction.

May Be Californians.

Meanwhile the search in Colorado, Nebraska, Oklahoma and New Mexico was not lessened.

The Sheriff at Lamar was informed by the Sheriff at Santa Barbara, Cal., that the bandits may have come from the latter city.

BEATING JUSTICE.

If you ever wonder why it is that prosecutors often find it hard to convict known criminals, listen to this life story of what happened in Kansas City.

Four men were arrested for holding up a grocery store. The manager and three clerks identified them, and the men were brought to trial. At the trial the witnesses reversed their testimony and said they could not identify the prisoners. The state's case fell flat.

Every prosecutor has seen things like that happen. But the Kansas City prosecutor happened to be exceptionally vigorous. He grilled the witnesses until they broke down and admitted the bandits had paid them $200 apiece to refuse to identify them. So now the witnesses are going to prison, and the bandits will be re-tried.

That sort of thing often happens. It is one of the things that keep the prosecutor's job from being considered a sinecure.

A HISTORIC HAIR.

In the year 1781 George Washington, urged thereto by his friend and admirer Hamilton Fish, generously presented to the latter a lock of his hair, which has been treasured in the family of the prosessor ever since. The other day it was turned over with due ceremony, by Stuyvesant Fish, to the Museum of the City of New York, where it may be seen publicly as one of the institution's most cherished exhibits.

The public will learn from close inspection a curious fact regarding the Father of His Country which is not generally known. The lock is described as "sandy," with several strands of gray." George Washington in his prime had "red hair"—a fact which seems natural enough, when you think of it over.

An exchange says, "prosperity creates more fools than adversity." Perhaps it just develops more.

What Other Editors Say

ARE PARENTS TO BLAME?

Are American parents disinterested in the mental life of their children? Is this attitude responsible for our children's negligence in the pursuit of knowledge? asks Robert Cooley Angell, professor of sociology at Michigan University, writing in the Forum for March.

"The failure of most American parents to take a serious interest in their children's mental growth tends to give the young a wrong attitude toward the vital things of life," says Professor Angell. "Nowadays parents, distracted by other duties and absorbed in their own pleasures, turn the larger share of the task of education over to the schools; while the children do not find the learning process adventurous enough to compete with the more colorful pursuits at hand. If parents should make themselves responsible for interesting their children in acquiring knowledge; and reinforce the work of the schools, education would be a simpler matter and its results more effective."—The Forum Magazine.

"But on the Other Hand—ers" Get Busy

Washington Correspondent Says It Doen't Take Bold Spirit to Predict Hoover and Smith.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington, May 26.—In a presidential year, the favorite words of the Washington correspondent are "but on the other hand—"

In such a year he deals with weasel words and never predicts anything without leaving himself a large loophole to crawl right back through. Surely anyone who reads Washington political stories at all must have been struck with the frequency of "many say this, but others say that—" formula.

It does seem as if a political writer ought to be able to come out and give his readers the low-down and what's what and what's going to happen. If he can't read the future himself he ought to have enough political friends who can tell him about it.

Doesn't Work Out.

But it doesn't work out that way at all. At the moment it doesn't take a very bold spirit to predict that the national convention will nominate Hoover and Smith. Many of "us boys" are beginning to do it. And yet, quite a few others will play safe right up to the conventions. After that, most politicians and correspondents will both enter a long period of doubt running right up to election night.

"So-and-so ought to win, but—" One reason such expressions are written in nearly all dispatches until it's all over is that anything can happen to spill the beans; all sorts of possibilities exist that may arise to bar the favorite. Another is that a fellow hears so many contradictory stories, for the truth is that the politicians who are supposed to be so smart and shrewd that they are able to forecast all political results in advance even if they aren't themselves arranging them are usually just as dumb as the correspondent. The correspondent's persistent question is "What do you know?" and so is the politician's.

Wouldn't Concede.

Until quite recently, hardly anyone around here conceded that Hoover could be nominated. And there are still one or two rather potent politicians who insist that Smith will be blocked.

Politicians are supposed to be a rather clever lot, but sometimes many of them seem almost childish. Like a couple of opposing lawyers interpreting a statute, one group of politicians can see a lucky break in a situation where another can see only disaster. As the correspondents often have to report, some think a latest development is a great help and others think it's a terrible blow. Sometimes, of course, the wish is father to the thought, but it's not generally the explanation.

The boys aren't ever quite sure where lies logic. Thus we find a lot of them insisting that Hoover can't be elected because the farmers dislike him for his opposition to the McNary-Haugen bill. But they all admit that Coolidge could be re-elected—and yet Coolidge is the man who vetoes the bill as often as it comes along. They argue that the agricultural states will desert to Smith rather than go for Hoover, but they know that there isn't anything in recent history to indicate that the farmers won't cast the G. O. P. ballot in November as usual.

The real doubting will come after the nominations and, with Smith running, it is easy to understand why. Already the political wisenheimers are busy assorting facts and factors and trying to guess just how they will operate. In another month the "some insist that—while others believe—" stories will blossom out more profusely than ever.

Parachute Used to Land Plane Safely

Experiment Designed to Prove Possibility of 'Chute for Disabled Planes.'

Tracy, Calif., May 26.—A small biplane has been landed safely from 2,000 feet by means of a huge parachute without injury to its pilot or damage to the plane.

The experiment, performed privately here, was designed to prove the possibility of using a parachute for disabled planes to insure safety of passengers.

The plane dropped about 2,000 feet, with its motor idle, when the huge parachute, more than 100 feet in diameter, opened out.

Pilot E. J. McKeon stayed with the ship as its speed rapidly slackened. He said he felt only a slight jar when the plane landed and the folds of the parachute enveloped him.

The biplane was not damaged except for a minor bend in the tail skid.

Fifty Years Ago

John Rieter has been having his saloon beautifully papered.

Our band boys will soon be out with their new instruments.

S. R. Beach is our new city attorney, C. A. Anthony having resigned.

A new dam is being constructed for the McMackin mill, on the Nodaway river.

Sam Lutes had a mess of new potatoes for dinner on last Sunday. How's this for early?

It is quite probable that Governor Silas Woodson will be present at the Democratic meeting at Conception next Saturday.

Reports come in from some parts of the county to the effect that the chinch bugs are doing some damage to the wheat crop.

The Albany hack leaves Maryville on Tuesday's, Thursdays and Saturdays of each week, returning on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

Prof. Alderman left last Tuesday for Chicago to purchase new instruments for our cornet band. The boys expect to have their new horns here by next Saturday.

Bedford, Ia., has a full fledged croquet organization with a constitution and by-laws and a full corps of officers. They are practicing every day with a view to perfecting themselves in the game so they can vanquish some of the neighboring towns in this game.

It is probable that a handsome two-story brick block will be erected on the side of Crane and Evans frame store room and A. Schuster's business house, corner Main and Third streets, this fall. The new block will have a forty-four foot front and a 60 foot depth and will be a great improvement to our city.

Mount Joe Brewery is now finished and in complete running order. The new buildings are two and three stories in height and cover a space of 40 by 120 feet on the ground. It is one of the most complete breweries in the state, and has been erected at a cost of some $15,000. These new buildings reflect credit on Henry Harmon, the contractor, as well as Mr. Neisendorfer, who had the enterprice to erect them.

A. J. Burks, who lives three miles southeast of Maryville, informed us the other day that he had twenty acres of corn taken up by mice shortly after it was planted. Wash Hoshor, adjoining him, had forty acres which was taken out by the mice. This corn was planted on ground on which shock fodder stood during the winter. The winter was so mild that nearly an army of mice was bred on this land and when the corn was planted they went to work and ate the corn out of the rows.

C. Q. Smith, of the firm of Smith Bros. of this city, has secured letters patent on an ingenious machine for measuring and rolling cloth. It has been tested and will accurately measure 60 yards to the minute and has been run off 84 yards a minute, doing the work of fifteen men in measuring. This machine is a great convenience in the matter of invoicing and we believe it is destined to come into general use. Mr. Smith has received a large number of applications for territory and the right to manufacture the machine.

Cooper Gooden was in town last Friday on crutches. He sprained his ankle badly while jumping, but will soon be on his feet again.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

President Ellis Cook of the Maryville business college and the senior class numbering about thirty are making preparations for the commencement exercises which will be held the week of June 30 in the First Christian Church.

Dave Munn was honored by the Democratic state committee at Jefferson City Tuesday by being appointed temporary sergeant-at-arms of the convention.

The high flying Trentonites were trimmed by the Comets by a score of 12 to 8. Markwell did the job, assisted of course by his pals.

The second annual rural picnic of Polk township rural schools will be held in Maryville Saturday and efforts are being made to make it one of the star attraction of the whole year. County Superintendent of Schools, W. M. Oakerson, is completing his plans for the picnic, which will bring hundreds of school children and patrons to Maryville.

Two candidates for the office of prosecuting attorney filed their declarations of candidacy Monday evening with County Clerk George Demott. They are John M. Dawson, Democrat, and Earl Wiles, Republican.

G. W. Fink, who has bought a hotel in Kansas and who will prepare to move to the sunflower state, has advertised his household goods for sale at public auction.

Still another barker shop changed hands Tuesday when Richard Strong and I. A. Tulloch purchased the East Fourth street barber shop of Protzman brothers.

The Maryville school district lost 45 children of school age according to the school enumeration just completed by Enumerator D. C. Pierpoint. There are 1212 school children.

THE SPANISH WAR

From the Scrapbook of O. H. Sayler, Hopkins.

The "Maine" Was Blown Up.

New York, May 5.—A special to the Herald from Toronto says: Almost immediately after the Maine disaster, Captain Kent, torpedo expert of the British Halifax Squadron, was hurriedly sent to Washington, D. C., when he proceeded to Key West, Fla. His departure caused considerable comment at the time, and the government was asked a question relative to the trip but simply answered that it was purely a departmental affair. Captain Kent has now returned to Halifax, and from some remarks he has made, it is evident that, whatever other business he had in hand, he was making inquiries about the Maine disaster.

He expresses the opinion that the vessel was blown up by external means and that it was probably by a mine, put in position not long before the explosion took place. He saw Captain Sigsbee and went carefully over all the evidence taken, and this, with his own accurate knowledge of explosives, their effect when exploded in certain conditions in such cases as that of the Maine disaster all traces of how the mine or torpedo was laid would disappear, made it plain to him that external agencies had been employed.

Such a thing, he asserts, could be done without the knowledge and against the will of the Spanish officers. He has made a most elaborate report to the British admiralty, and it is said that the document contains important information on the naval force of the United States in Cuban waters.

A Call For Volunteers.

By the President of the United States.
A Proclamation:

Whereas, by an act of Congress entitled "An act to provide for increasing the military establishment of the United States in time of war, and for other purposes," approved April 22, 1898, the President was authorized, in order to raise a volunteer army, to issue his proclamation calling for volunteers to serve in the Army of the United States.

Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, President of the United States, by virtue of power vested in me by the constitution and laws and deeming sufficient occasion to exist, have thought fit to call for, and hereby do call for, volunteers to the aggregate number of 125,000 in order to carry into effect the purpose of the said resolution, the same to be apportioned as far as practicable among the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia, according to population, and to serve for two years unless sooner discharged. The details for this object will be immediately communicated to the proper authorities through the War Department.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at Washington this twenty-third day of April, 1898, and of the Independence of the United States, the 122d.

(Signed), WM. McKINLEY,
By the President.

GIRL ALONE

COPYRIGHT 1928 BY NEA SERVICE

By ANNE AUSTIN, AUTHOR OF "SAINT AND SINNER"

THIS HAS HAPPENED

SALLY FORD, ward of the state orphanage from the time she is four, is "farmed out" to CLEM CARSON when she is 16. She meets DAVID NASH, athlete and student who is working on the farm for the summer. Carson makes remarks about David's friendship with Sally and the student strikes him a terrific blow.

Sally and David flee and join a carnival, David as cook's helper and Sally in a sideshow disguised as "Princess Lalla," crystal gazer. NITA, Hula dancer, who knows the police are after the newcomers and who is infatuated with David, threatens to expose Sally if she doesn't keep "hands off" the young student.

The carnival goes next to Capital City, where Sally spent so many years in the orphanage. She successfully eludes detection under the disguise of the crystal gazer until one afternoon when the orphans troop in with their hostess, a beautiful woman who fascinates Sally. One of the children recognizes Sally and shouts her name, but GUS, the barker, comes to her rescue and diverts attention. Sally is surprised to see the beautiful "Lady Bountiful" stop and talk with a well-dressed, handsome Easterner who earlier in the afternoon has teasingly read Sally's fortune in the crystal and asked her to go to supper with him.

That night a terrible storm blows up and when the tent falls Sally finds herself supported in the arms of a man who had spoken to her earlier in the day. He tells her he knows her real identity. When they are rescued from under the tent, Sally learns the carnival safe has been robbed and that David and Nita are missing. She pleads with Bybee, carnival owner, not to send the police after David until he has had a chance to return. At last he agrees. Sally goes out in the night to find him. At daybreak she sees him coming toward her, a wound in his shoulder. Back on the train he tells of following Nita and STEVE as they fled with the money.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Sally's sapphire eyes blazed at the man she knew only as "Van", but since they were veiled with a new scrap of black lace to replace the one lost in the storm, the nonchalant New Yorker did not appear to be at all devastated by their fire.

"Thank you for saving my life," she said stiffly, but the man's mocking, admiring attention was fixed upon the deliciously young, sweet curves of her mouth, rather than upon the tone of her voice.

"I wonder if you know," he began confidentially, leaning lightly upon his inevitable cane, "that you have the most adorable mouth I have ever seen? Of course there are other adorable details in the picture of complete loveliness that you present, but really, your lips, like three rose petals—"

"Oh, stop!" Sally cried with childish anger, her small, red-sandled foot stamping the platform. "Why are you always mocking me, making fun of me? I've begged you to let me alone."

"Such ingratitude!" the man sighed, but his narrowed eyes smiled at her delightfully. "If you weren't even more delicious when you're angry, I should not be able to forgive you. But really, Sally Ford—" his voice dropped caressingly on the name, as if to remind her that he shared her secret with her—"the way you persist in misunderstanding me is very distressing.

"I'm not mocking you, my dear child! I'm mocking myself—if anyone. It recurs to me continually that this is an amazing adventure that Arthur Van Horne, of New York, Long Island and Newport is so sedulously engaged upon! To paraphrase your own delightful defense, I'm really 'not that kind of a man.' I assure you I'm not in the habit of making love to show girls, no matter how adorable their mouths may be!" And he smiled at her out of his narrowed eyes and with his quirked, quizzical mouth, as if he expected her to share his amusement and amazement at himself.

"Then why don't you let me alone?" Sally cried, striking her little brown-painted hands together in futile rage.

"I wonder!" he mused. "I make up my mind that I'm a blighter and an ass and that I shan't come near the carnival. I accept invitations enough to take up every minute of my last days in Capital City, and then—without the least intending to do so—I find myself back in the Palace of Wonders, humbling myself before a pair of little red-sandaled feet that would like nothing better than to kick me for my impudence. Do you suppose, Sally Ford, that I'm falling in love with you? There's something about you, you know—"

"Please go away," Sally implored him. "It's almost time for my performance. Gus is ballyhooing Jan and I come next."

"As I was saying, when you interrupted me," Van Horne reproved her mockingly, "there's something about you, you know. Last night when I had the honor of saving your life and of seeing your adorable little face washed clean of the brown paint, I was surprised at myself. I really was, I give you my word!

"Do you know what I wanted to do? I wanted to swing you up into my arms, you amazingly tiny thing, and run away with you. If you hadn't looked so young and—pure. I believe the favorite word is—I'd have yielded to the impulse. I suppress so few of my unholy desires that I suppose this discipline is good for my soul —. Now, what the devil are you looking at, instead of listening to the confessions of a young man?" he broke off with a genuine note of irritation in his charming voice.

"Who is that beautiful woman?" Sally asked in a low voice, her eyes still fixed upon the golden-haired woman whom Van Horne had called "Enid," and who had just entered the tent alone, her small body, clad in the green knitted silk sports suit, moving through the crowd with proud disdain.

"Again I am forced to forgive you," Van Horne sighed humorously. "I seem always to be forgiving you, Sally Ford! You are merely asking a question which is inevitably asked when Enid Barr first bursts upon a startled public.

"She is probably the most beautiful blond in New York society. Those industrious cold cream advertisers would pay her a fortune for the use of her picture and endorsement, but it happens that she has two or three large fortunes of her own, as well as a disgustingly rich husband. Yes, unfortunately for her adorers, she is married, Courtney Barr—even out here you must have heard of Courtney Barr—being the lucky man."

"I wonder what she's doing here," Sally whispered, fright widening her eyes behind the black lace.

"Oh, I think Courtney's here on political business. The Barrs have always rather fancied themselves as leaders among the Wall Street makers of presidents. He's hobnobbing with my cousin, the governor, and Enid is probably amusing herself by collecting Americana."

"She must be awfully good," Sally whispered, adoration making her voice lovely and wistful. "She brought all the orphanage children to the carnival yesterday, you know."

"Yes," Van Horne shrugged, arching his brows quizzically. "I confess I was rather stunned, for Enid doesn't go in for personal charity. Huge checks and all that sort of thing—she's endowed some sort of institution for 'fallen girls,' by the way—but it has never seemed to amuse her to play Lady Bountiful in person. Of course she may be nursing a secret passion for children and took this means to gratify it where her crowd could not rag her about it."

"Hasn't she any children of her own?" Sally asked. "But I suppose she's too young—"

"Not at all," Van Horne laughed. "She's past 30, certainly, though she would never forgive me for saying so. She's never had any children; been married about 13 years, I think."

"Oh, that's too bad!" Sally's voice was tender and wistful. "She'd make such a lovely mother—"

Van Horne interrupted with his throaty, musical laugh, and was in turn interrupted by Gus the barker's stentorian roar:

"Right this way, la-dees and gen-tlemen! I want to introduce you to Princess Lalla, who sees all, knows all! Princess Lalla, world famous crystal-gazer, favorite—"

Sally straightened in her throne-like chair, her little brown hands cupping obediently about the "magic crystal" on the velvet-draped stand before her. Van Horne, with a last ironic chuckle, melted into the crowd, which had surged toward Sally's platform.

When Gus's spiel was finished, the rush began. At least a dezen hands shot upward, waving quarters and demanding the first opportunity to learn "past, present and future" from "Princess Lalla."

She worked hard, conscientiously and cautiously, for she was vividly conscious that both Van Horne and Enid Barr were somewhere in the tent, listening perhaps, whispering about her.

Most of her fear of Enid Barr, which had resulted from the connection of the golden-haired woman with the orphanage children the day before, had evaporated. It was absurd to think that a woman of such wealth and beauty, whose philanthropy had undoubtedly been a gesture of boredom, was seriously interested in one lone little girl who had run away from charity.

It did not even seem odd to Sally that Enid Barr should have paid a second visit to the carnival. Probably Capital City afforded scant amusement for a woman of her sophistication, and the carnival, crude and tawdry though it was, was better than nothing.

Since "Princess Lalla" was not a side-show all by herself, but only one of many attractions in the Palace of Wonders, Gus never made any attempt to cajole reluctant "rubes" into surrendering their quarters for a glimpse of "past, present and future," but always hustled his crowd on to the next platform—"Pitty Sing's"—as soon as the first flurry of interest had died down and the crowd had become restive.

By this method, those who were faintly or belligerently dissatisfied with Sally's crystal-gazing, at which she was becoming more adept with each performance, were quickly placated by the sight of new wonders, for which no extra charge was made.

Sally was straightening the black velvet drapery which covered the crystal stand, preparatory to returning to the dress tent for a rest between shows, when a lovely, lilting voice, with a ripple of amusement in it, made her gasp with surprise and consternation.

"Am I too late to have my fortune told?" Enid Barr, gazing up at Sally with her golden head tilted provocatively below the startled crystal-gazer, one of her exquisite small hands swinging the silvery-green felt hat which Sally had so much admired the day before.

"Oh, no!" Sally fluttered, both delighted and frightened at this opportunity to talk with the most beautiful creature she had ever seen. Just in time she remembered her accent: "Weel you do me ze honor to ascend the steps?"

Laughing at herself to see that she was not observed by anyone who knew her, Enid Barr ran lightly up the steps and slipped into the little camp chair opposite Sally. Her small white hands, with their exquisite nails glistening in the light from the center gas jet, hovered over the crystal, touching it tentatively, with the curiosity of a child becoming acquainted with a new toy.

Sally leaned forward, her own hands cupped about the crystal, her eyes brooding upon it behind the little black lace veil, her mouth pursed with sweet seriousness.

"You are—what you call it?—psychic," Sally chanted in the quaint, mincing voice with which she had been taught to make her revelations. "Ze creeystal, she is va-ry clear for you. I see so-o-o much!" She hesitated, wondering just how much of Van Horne's confidences about this beautiful woman she dared appropriate. Would Van Horne give her away? Then, as if drawn by a powerful magnet, she raised her eyes suddenly and met those of Van Horne, who was leaning nonchalantly against the center-pole of the tent. He nodded, smiled his curious, quizzical smile and slowly winked his right eye. She had his permission—

"Please hurry!" Enid Barr commanded arrogantly. "I'm just dying to know what you see about me in that crystal!"

"I see a beeg, beeg city," Sally intoned dreamily, her eyes again fixed upon the crystal. "I see you there, in beeg, beeg house. Much moneys. And behind you I see a man—your husband, no?"

"Yes, I am married." Enid Barr laughed. "Since you see so much, suppose you tell me my name."

"I see—" Sally frowned, but her heart was pounding at her audacity, "ze letter E and ze letter R—no, B! I see a beeg, beeg place—not your house—with ma-ny, ma-ny girls holding out zeir arms to you. You help zem. You are va-ry, va-ry good."

"Rot!" Edith Barr laughed, but a bright flush of pleasure spread over her fair face. "One has to do something with 'much moneys,' doesn't one? Listen, Princess Lalla, if that is really your name: prove to me you are a real crystal gazer! Tell me something I'd give almost anything to know—" She leaned forward tensely, her violet-blue eyes darkening with excitement and appeal until they were almost the color of Sally's.

"And what's that, Enid?" a mocking, amused voice inquired. "Do you want to know whether I really love you? How can you ask! Of course I do!"

Enid Barr sprang to her feet so hastily that the camp stool on which she had been sitting overturned, anger and something like fear blazing in her eyes.

200,000
Buyers Can't Be Wrong

- a Successful Six now winning Even Greater Success

When the Pontiac Six was first introduced less than two and a half years ago, immediate buying enthusiasm was aroused. The public accepted the statement of General Motors and Oakland that here was a new car offering six-cylinder value never before enjoyed at such low price. 75,000 Pontiac Sixes sold in 1926 established a world's record for a new make of car. Sales for 1927 carried the total of satisfied Pontiac owners beyond the 200,000 mark. And now, even if its unrivaled value could not be proved by comparison with other cars in its field—even if its superiority could not be demonstrated by scores of advanced features combined in no other low-priced six—even if all its claims to leadership were based on generalities — you could still buy the Pontiac Six with complete confidence . . . for 200,000 buyers can't be wrong!
